

4th Saturday Walks

Dale Dike Reservoir

Saturday 23rd November 2019, 10:30

How many of you remember “A gentle walk of only 5 miles, to ease us back after the Christmas celebrations”, from January 2018.

Yes, that’s the one where we nearly drowned in the mud and got soaked through by the rain. I have decided that as we failed to finish it last time, we should have another go, but this time doing it clockwise, so we end up with the wind blowing us up the hill.

Starting point is the car park at The Sands in Low Bradfield; most of you will be familiar with this by now but if not the post code for Low Bradfield is S6 6LB and the car park is signposted around the village. We will stop for lunch somewhere (depending on how windy it is) unless the weather is really bad. There are toilets and eating places at the start and end of the walk.
